

Dr. Greg Creech is President/CEO of GLC Technologies, Inc. (GLC2) from 2016-present. GLC2 is a small technology development and consulting firm that provides Subject Matter Expertise (SME) services focusing on Trusted Microelectronics and RF Microsystems. Greg was the Assistant Director of the Electro Science Laboratory at The Ohio State University (2012-2016). Prior to that he was the Principal Components Strategist for the Air Force Research Laboratory, Aerospace Components and Subsystems Division, where he established a research portfolio to develop advanced sensor systems, including, RF and mixed-signal materials, components, integrated microsystems, and integrated circuit hardware assurance initiatives.