

Nian Sun (Fellow, IEEE) is a College of Engineering Distinguished Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering, Director of the W.M. Keck Laboratory for Integrated Ferroics, Northeastern University, and founder and Chief Technology Advisor of Winchester Technologies, LLC. Dr. Sun received the Humboldt Research Award, NSF CAREER Award, ONR Young Investigator Award, the Søren Buus Outstanding Research Award, the Outstanding Translational Research Award, etc. His research interests include novel magnetic, ferroelectric, and multiferroic materials, devices and microsystems, novel gas sensors and systems, etc. He has over 300 publications and over 30 patents and patent applications.